

Pulling together your MBTI “Best-Fit” Type

- 1) On your “Best fit” worksheet, fill in the blue column using the chart at the bottom of page 3 of your report.
- 2) For each of the four preference pairs:
 - Circle one of the initials (e.g. I/E , S/N , T/F, J/P)
 - Mark how “certain” the questionnaire algorithm was (very clear, clear, moderate, slight)
- 3) Use a combination of the purple column, the blue column, and your own gut to decide on your “best-fit” type. Write this into the pink column. – This is the MBTI type YOU think fits you best.
- 4) Insert the four letters of your “best-fit” type in the green section at the bottom.

HINTS if you are undecided at any point in the process:

- If you are unsure on any individual preference pair, consider whether there are demands on you to operate differently from your natural preference. Or think about what you prefer when you are at your most relaxed.
- If you are trying to choose between different four-letter types, use the “Thumbnail” description page